Workshop Descriptions

Aboriginal non-profit HR & Workforce Strategy — A Discussion about recruiting & retaining the best and the brightest from our Community

By: Victoria Native Friendship Centre Sessions: 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 11 & 12

This lounge style workshop will discuss a provincial strategy to strengthen the Aboriginal Non Profit (ANP) workforce. Our talk will include visioning cultural and traditional values models with involvement of youth and Elders throughout the session. The flow of the session is as dynamic as your ideas, so come willing to share and learn from others who have experience in the ANP.

Tailored for students/interns, volunteers, staff and board members of ANPs, this talk is open to youth, young adults and

Assertion of First Nations Rights for Economic Benefit

By: New Relationship Trust Sessions: 2, 5, 8 & 11

This presentation showcases the processes and steps that First Nations have taken to assert their rights within their traditional territories. It focuses on how Land Use Planning, Governance, and Consultation and Accommodation strategies can be used to unify a First Nation to maximize its participation in the economic projects in its territory.

The target age for this workshop is 19-24 years old.

A Tribe Called Interns

By: Aboriginal Youth Internship Program

Sessions: 2, 3, 8 & 9

Our workshop will explore what it means to be an Aboriginal intern within the government and how the skills we learn will benefit our communities. We will discuss what we have learned both professionally and culturally, how this internship has led us to gain more First Nations connections and encouraged us to connect with our culture.

Axé Capoeira

By: Marco Caffiero, Patrick Henderson and Michael Lewinson Sessions: 1, 4, 7 & 10

The main theme of this workshop will be health and fitness and the positive outcomes for physical release through Capoeira, other forms of martial arts, and sports in general. During this workshop students will gain knowledge of Capoeira, i.e. history, indigenous influences that helped shape the martial art over 400 years, what Capoeira is today, what it has done for myself and the other workshop facilitators, and what it can offer you. The class will start with a fun Capoeira style warm up, followed by a quick stretch, and then learn some basic movements and acrobatics from Capoeira and kickboxing techniques. Students will get a feel for what Capoeira is and will walk away with a new perspective on the art and the importance of health and fitness.

Be More Outgoing and Meet New Friends!

By: Warren Hooley Sessions: 5 & 6

This workshop is full of games, exercises, and interaction amongst participants. We want to get up, move around and start acting like the person we are when we are with our best friends. I was extremely shy for over 22 years of my life! But now I facilitate workshops and perform on stage for a living! Let me show you how I got from Point A to Point B with some fun and easy ways to lift your spirits, raise your self-beliefs, and tap into your inner child!

Be More than a Bystander

By: J.R. LaRose and Angus Reid, BC Lions

Sessions: 2

With J.R. LaRose and Angus Reid, youth will have an opportunity to discuss issues they face every day in the hallways at school, the impact of texting and bullying. This workshop is about breaking the silence surrounding violence against women and girls by providing tools, language and practical ideas. As well, it is about how to be more than a bystander, how to speak up and how to communicate that violence and abuse is not acceptable.

Break Free: An Intro to Breakdancing

By: LaW Roberts

Sessions: 2, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 11 & 12

Learn how to get started with Breakdancing by starting with the basics. You'll learn toprock, go downs, down rock, stalls and other tricks/moves. This workshop is suitable for all skill levels as well as both guys and gals. This is a great opportunity to discover the positives of dance. Not only is breakdancing fun, exciting, and impressive, it's also Healthy for your body, mind and spirit!

Bullying Prevention: Beyond the Hurt

By: Federation of Aboriginal Foster Parents

Sessions: 5, 6, 8, 9, 11 & 12

The goal of this workshop is to identify what bullying is, its different types, and how we can prevent it in our communities. Through discussion and activity we will promote wellness, healthy relations, and create awareness about the devastating effects bullying has on our communities.

Cedar Bark Basket Class

By: Jessica Casey

Sessions: 1 & 4

This workshop is an introduction to Cedar Bark weaving. Through discussion, we will talk about the process of harvesting and preparing Cedar Bark. You will learn the basics of checkerboard weave in Red Cedar and twining techniques with Yellow Cedar before starting your own project. A decorative weft of cherry bark or dyed Red Cedar will be incorporated into the design of the basket. The goal of the workshop is to connect you to a past way of life, to a tradition that our people always practiced and used in everyday life, and identify with our culture – a culture that is as alive and as rich as the Cedar Tree itself.

Champions for Change: Child and Youth Rights

By: The Representative for Children and Youth (BC)

Sessions: 2, 3, 8 & 9

Designed to provide vulnerable youth with information, this skill building workshop will assist them to understand and advocate for their rights and learn how to have their voices and views heard and considered in decisions about their lives. There are small and large group discussions to encourage participatory learning, reflective exercises that build capacity and confidence and assist youth to expand their resources and knowledge of supports in their communities, and fun games which encourage youth to 'show what they know'. Youth will learn about their rights, the RCY, and how to be effective self-advocates. The target age for this workshop is 14-18 years old.

Choices

By: Rob Kasp Swan

Sessions: 12

"If better is possible, is good good enough?" This workshop will provide delegates with the tools to create a unique personal development program. The journey will start by visiting experiences of the past, evaluating current circumstances, and making new choices about what your future will hold.

Curious About Cancer

By: El Taylor, BC Cancer Agency Prevention Programs

Sessions: 11 & 12

Youth attending the workshop will take part in a dynamic format to "thoughtstream" their questions, concerns, fears, and solutions regarding cancer and its impact in their communities. The workshop will provide an opportunity for youth to be curious – to talk about a subject which has been taboo for many cultures. To overcome the fear factor and to move toward a healthy vision for communities, youth will have an opportunity to meet with other youth who are actively involved in cancer prevention, healing, and teaching in their schools and communities.

Cuystwi (Let's go)

By: Provincial Health Services Authority, Aboriginal Health

Program

Sessions: 4 & 10

This workshop demonstrates an interactive youth website. The website utilizes games, maps, timelines, and videos to discuss issues important to Aboriginal youth. The topics that will be covered include: colonization (history), racism (coping and identity strengthening), and culture. Youth will be able to gain knowledge surrounding important issues and provide valuable feedback on all aspects of the website to enable future improvements.

Don't Be A Stereotype!

By: First Nations Education Steering Committee

Sessions: 1, 4, 7 & 10

It is an unfortunate reality that Aboriginal people are still restricted by the stereotypes that too many non-Aboriginal people have of Inuit, Métis, and First Nations peoples. But where does the solution lie in changing how Aboriginal people are viewed by others? There is a collective challenge for the individual, the community, institutions, and the media in creating a more varied, deeper, and extensive understanding of who Aboriginal people are. This workshop will focus on the unique role of youth in taking leadership in how they want the world to see them. What power and control you have is there for the taking if you desire!

Do the Math!

By: AANDC & BCAAFC

Sessions: 5, 6 & 8

Ever wonder how much your dream lifestyle would actually cost? And how to make the choices to help you find a job that can help you achieve your dreams? Through interactive money games, budgeting tools, and interviews, youth will learn about creating their future and discuss financial planning, education, employment and career goals. Youth can also create a personal "dream job" statement and record that statement through picture or video to be posted on the GOV website.

Youth, young adults, and chaperones are all invited to take part in this workshop.

Dreams in Motion

By: Linsay Willier and James Jones

Sessions: 1 & 7

Linsay Willier and James Jones team up and share their life stories and give insight on goal setting, self-esteem building and what it takes to achieve your dreams. Linsay and James talk about their experiences on Canada's Next Top Model and So You Think You Can Dance Canada, as well as life after the show.

Elders Don't Bite

By: BC Association of Aboriginal Friendship Centre's Elders Council/PAYC Provincial Aboriginal Youth Council

Sessions: 1 & 7

Elders have so much to offer: wisdom, patience, kindness, guidance and time. They open their hearts in this workshop to those youth looking to connect with Elders, just as they look to connect with youth. These two groups have so much to share and the learning goes both ways. This open circle discussion will have directed topics relevant to both groups and seeks to create a space where mutual respect and understanding can grow. Come prepared to laugh!

EVA BC's Indigenous Communities Safety Project: Empowering Aboriginal Youth

By: Ending Violence Organization of BC

Sessions: 1 & 4

All forms of violence have a debilitating and intergenerational impact on children and youth. The purpose of the workshop is to provide participants with the knowledge sharing framework and overview of the Indigenous Communities' Safety Project. Participants will learn about the lethality risks of violence, how to overcome silence, how to respond to disclosures in domestic violence situations, to recognize the value of traditional and cultural teachings that relate to healthy relationships and to learn about being part of a team to develop a safety plan.

Through discussion, role play and activity youth will learn tools to build and evaluate healthy relationships. These tools include being able to articulate what is a "relationship"; exploring the expression of healthy relationship qualities; developing a sense of mutual responsibility for the health of relationships and sexual health among partners; exploring the rights and responsibilities that go along with being in a relationship including the idea of boundaries and healthy and unhealthy approaches to building and maintaining relationships.

Healthy Thinking - Healthy Life:

By: Common Sense Centre

A Common Sense and Critical Thinking Technique

Sessions: 1, 4, & 7

This interactive and entertaining workshop will use a common sense and critical thinking approach to challenge workshop participants on how to make sense of the broad range of physical and mental health issues facing us today - from food and diets to exercise programs. How do we come to an understanding of the many complicated wellness issues facing us in our quickly changing world? Participants are encouraged to define the meaning of 'Healthy choices' and to know when they are making them. We design our pro- active health plan by creating strong decisions and taking power for the choices we make- this leads us to take charge of our future. Active involvement, not avoidance, builds strong bodies. Participants will learn how to ask effective questions and carefully evaluate evidence that will lead to stronger, healthier choices.

Healthy Visions

By: Christie Charles

Sessions: 1, 4, 7 & 10

All forms of violence have a debilitating and intergenerational impact on children and youth. Honour Youth Health Video Workshop

By: Tillicum LeLum Sessions: 1, 4, 7 & 10

The purpose of this workshop is to allow youth to think about things that contribute to a healthy lifestyle and showcase these things through the production of a video. Participants will be asked to brainstorm about things we can do in our lives to keep us healthy and strong. We will also discuss what can happen when we make choices that are unhealthy for our bodies. Participants will then create a skit to show how we can make healthier choices. The skits will be filmed and edited on site so that the video can be put on youtube and participants can share their work with their friends.

How Coyote Imitated Bear and Kingfisher

By: En'owkin Centre Sessions: 4, 7 & 10

Personal health and well-being comes from within each and every one, along with sharing the excitement, the pride, and the joy in sharing the knowledge of our ways which will continue to be passed down for generations. From a Syilix Indigenous perspective, this workshop seeks new and innovative ways of teaching of the laws, ethics principles and values from chaptikwl (story). The Syilx, or Okanagan Stories, assists the transfer of knowledge and cultural teachings during the winter. In this workshop, En'owkin Centre staff and previous students will share song, story and dance as learned from the land and animals, while performing a skit of one of the chaptikwl titled Bear and Coyote.

Human Performance: Image and Fitness Myths

By: Jonathan Pfeiffer

Sessions: 8 & 9

In this workshop, youth will learn about health, fitness, and nutrition as they relate to areas such as media, your own self-perception, eating and body image disorders, sports supplements, and athletic aids to name a few. Through engaging discussion and a game, you will gain an understanding of what is myth and is true about your health.

I?sc'xwaxws (The Teachings From Within)

The youth created sculpted images of wellness will be seed images for inspiring visual art responses from the rest of the conference youth and their allies.

Indig-a-Fit: Healthy Lifestyles with the Indigenous Mindset

By: Wesley King and Shannon Rose-Vickers

Sessions: 4 & 10

Indig-A-Fit will begin with an in-depth look at how our nutritional choices affect our entire bodily function, and with that understanding, demonstrate how we can use today's foods to return to the benefits of the indigenous diets of our ancestors. The fitness component will use CrossFit methods, which focus on perfecting human movement with "constantly varied high-intensity functional movements." We will put into context the advantages CrossFit provides to athletes of all kinds, but more importantly, how beneficial it is to how we move our bodies on a daily basis. Not to mention the amazing way it effects how you look and feel about your body. Lastly, we will compare the traditional ways of living from our past (i.e.: hunting and gathering,) and how we can replicate that with the exercises we do today. In this I will give the youth a connection to their ancestors and an appreciation for how they survived day to day in a healthy way.

Individual Aboriginal Holistic Health Toolkit

By: Beverly Julian

Sessions: 5, 11 & 12

Aboriginal health was always recognized as Holistic in nature, and included the physical, mental, emotional, spiritual aspects of life. It is through this understanding of self, which intended to balance body, mind and spirit, that we strived to have a vision of wellness. This was constantly changing and promoted through the life of a person. It is the intention of this Holistic Toolkit to provide a clear understanding of holistic health, to better understand our bodies and minds to gain some control in these areas of our lives. I recognize not all individuals who are Aboriginal share the same beliefs, nor have the same at risk conditions, therefore we call it "Individual Aboriginal Holistic Health Toolkit". Each participant will receive their own copy of the Toolkit and a meditation blanket.

Insight into the Missing Women's Advisory Committee

By: Honourable Steven Point

Sessions: 11

In 2010, the Lieutenant Governor in Council launched the Missing Women's Commission of Inquiry. The intent of this Inquiry was to provide insight for the families and communities who have lost women and who have not been given any answers. Put forth from the Inquiry were 63 suggestions. In immediate response to these suggestions, the Minister of Justice of BC appointed the Honourable Steven Point (Xwě IĪ qwěl těl) as the chairperson of the Advisory Committee on the safety and security of vulnerable women. Acting as Chief of the Skowkale First Nation for over 20 years and serving as the Tribal Chair of the Stó:lō Nation from 1994 to 1999, Honourable Steven Point became the Chief Commissioner of the British Columbia Treaty process in 2005. In 2007, he was appointed as the Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia.

Join us to listen to Honourable Steven Point as he discusses his journey to this position, how he intends to move forward with the healing for all of the families and communities who have been impacted by the disappearances of their women, and learn how we can prevent these disappearances from happening. All delegates and chaperones are invited to attend this workshop.

Report Card Day! Grading your Government!

By: Jonathon Browne & Naomi Graham

Sessions: 5

This session hopes to answer the three following questions: What are the things youth feel are important to grade their governments on?; Would youth be interested in being engaged on an ongoing basis in providing their views on the performance of their governments?; and What are the best ways to engage Aboriginal youth?

Our workshop aims to discuss ways to open a communication channel between young Aboriginal people, government and the broader Canadian population. Using the views of Aboriginal youth on the performance of their governments, and the things that they feel are important to measure, the session aims to start building a government report card.

Rezz to Riches Hip-Hop 101

By: Emichael Productions

Sessions: 5, 6, 8, 9, 11 & 12

The workshop focuses on exposing youth participants to the healing power of music. Participants will hear firsthand from peer facilitators; what music means to me, how it changed my life, how it impacted my community, and what it means in my future. Music has been a powerful change agent at the individual and community level for Erick, Darien, and Dameon. They will teach youth how to tap into their emotions and experiences and how writing and creating music can be a healthy activity. Participants will engage in a storytelling and song-writing activity. They will also have the opportunity to test the equipment used in music-making, i.e. putting their work into an Emichael Productions beat.

What Does Self Sufficiency Mean to You?

By: NAFC & CCAY

Sessions: 1

The National Association of Friendship Centres (NAFC) is looking for your input to influence a National project. We all know how Cultural Connections for Aboriginal Youth (CCAY) programs create positive change in the lives of Aboriginal youth, but how do we show that? The NAFC has started to develop a tool that will measure how CCAY influences youth towards healthy, productive lives. We call this 'self-sufficiency', and we want to demonstrate how CCAY creates self-sufficiency and helps youth to participate in the Canadian economy. Development of the tool cannot go forward without your involvement. The NAFC will host an interactive workshop, with hands-on review of this new measurement tool, and will be seeking your recommendations for its next steps. We hope to have input from youth as well as project coordinators.
